KEY TOPICS

- What do users need from international mediation and arbitration?
- What are leading ADR service providers delivering?
- Is there a gap between the two, and if so, how can we bridge it?
- Is greater use of mediation the way forward?

The International Mediation Institute (IMI), the IDR Group and Herbert Smith Freehills LLP are pleased to invite you to attend this interactive Convention for users and service providers of International Dispute Resolution (“IDR”) mechanisms for preventing, de-escalating and resolving international and cross-cultural commercial disputes.

The Convention will call upon users and providers to discuss new attitudes, approaches and ideas in IDR.

Delegates will be issued with electronic devices to communicate their comments, suggestions and questions as the Convention progresses, and to vote on all proposals as they arise.

With the generous support of the City of London Corporation
